MIXED MEDIA

1925 Special

Vernon Dalhart, Clara Bow, and Sinclair Lewis.

A rundown on what's currently available on Archive from 1925. I know it's early but they still don't have a free, reliable files of Fitzgerald's Gatsby, nor Maugham's The Painted Veil. Lewis' Arrowsmith is available, along with Willa Cather's The Professor's Daughter , non-fiction essays by Virginia Woolf, poetry by Aldous Huxley, and two different works by Edith Wharton. Also in this issue, a tribute to character actor Edmond O'Brien, and a 78 RPM hit parade.

Spotlight on Edmond O'Brien

Eamon Joseph O'Brien (September 10, 1915 – May 9, 1985) was an American actor. In a career spanning nearly four decades, he received an Academy Award, two Golden Globe Awards, and two stars on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. One of the most respected character actors of American cinema, O'Brien gained critical acclaim for his roles in The Barefoot Contessa (1954) and Seven Days in May (1964), the former of which won him an Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor. His other notable films include The Hunchback of Notre Dame (1939), The Killers (1946), A Double Life (1947), White Heat (1949), D.O.A. (1950), The Hitch-Hiker (1953), Julius Caesar (1953), 1984 (1956), The Girl Can't Help It (1956), The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance (1962), Fantastic Voyage (1966), The Wild Bunch (1969), and The Other Side of the Wind (2018).

O'Brien and Frank Lovejoy play two best buddies on a hunting trip away from their wives who make the fatal mistake of picking up Perry Mason's future arch-nemesis. I detect a gay subtext throughout the story, but that's purely subjective. MP
